Organizing Red Cross Campaign

William Lees Passed on This Morning

Heart Attack Proves Fatal; Was Well-Known in Alberta; Came to Coleman 1912

An empire war conference is to be held in London at an early date, it was officially announced in Ottawa. Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, will represent Canada. Mr. Crerar, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said, will soon proceed to London.

Local Athletes Make University Sports Teams

Two local athletes who enrolled at Alberta University this Fall are reported to have been successful in making the university athletic teams.

Bob Emmerson two weeks ago scaled the ten feet mark in the pole vault and won a place on the pole-vault team. He was expected to compete Saturday last against university teams from neighboring provinces.

Ian Smith, husky six-footer, was successful in lining up with the rugby team. He has already played against Saskatchewan university. Ian is strange to the game, but long before his graduation should be a tower of strength to the varsity team.

Polish Society Bazaar

The Polish Society and the Polish Youth Club announce a benefit bazaar and dance to be held in the Polish hall on Saturday, October 28, from 2 to 7 p.m., and in the evening a dance will be held from 9 to 12 p.m. The Tombola draw will be held at the dance. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend, and give their support.

Presents Fine Appearance

The exterior of Sentinel Motors presents a fine appearance, and by night is brightly illuminated, greeting the automobile as he approaches from the west. It is a distinct improvement to the west end of main street. Rudy Alexander and his staff are equipped to give rapid and efficient service on all repairs and overhauls.

Blairmore Public Library Tea

From 3 to 6 p.m. Saturday the women members of the library are holding a "Publicity Tea" at the library. The board has ordered a new shipment of books—adult and junior—and hope some of them may be on hand for Saturday. The secretary of the library board is Mrs. C. M. Larbalastier.

LOCAL NEWS

$1.90 was collected by Mr. Fred Cooke on his annual visit as organizer of the Alberta division of the Navy League of Canada.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Godfrey recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the local hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hadley were in Calgary attending the wedding of Miss Isabel Jempson, sister of Mr. J. J. Jempson. While in the city they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Jempson.

On Tuesday evening ladies of the Eastern Star chapters of Coleman, Blairmore and Hillcrest chartered a Greyhound bus to take them to Pincher Creek chapter meeting. 26 made the trip, and spent a very jolly evening, reaching Coleman on the home trip soon after 1 a.m.

SEES PROSPERITY FOR CANADA

"Prosperity...Inevitable and brilliant prosperity. Probably even lasting prosperity." So said Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born publisher of London's Daily Express, about Canada at Toronto's Island Airport, Oct. 4, as he ducked a few questions about the war and explosively answered others.

THE WEEK'S WEDDINGS

Houghton-Watson

The wedding took place on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock in the Bellevue United church manse of Nora, youngest daughter of Mrs. Arthur Watson and the late Mr. Watson, to Mr. Jack Houghton, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Houghton, of Coleman. Rev. Richard Upton conducted.

Attendants were Miss Ann Wysneki, of Bellevue, and Mr. Ernest Houghton jr., brother of the groom.

The wedding supper was held at the home of the bride's mother at Bellevue. The bridal couple have taken up residence in East Coleman, the groom being employed with McGillivray Creek Coal Co.

Attendants were Miss Margaret Pardell, of Coleman, and Mr. John Squarek, of Hillcrest. The wedding breakfast was held at the bride's parents' home in East Coleman.

Jenkins-Houghton

Blairmore United church manse was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday morning when Margaret, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Houghton, became the bride of Robert Jenkins jr., son of Mr. Robert Jenkins and the late Mrs. Jenkins. Rev. E. B. Arrol conducted.

Tiberg-Kanik

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Saturday at 11:30 a.m. at the Holy Ghost

LOCAL NEWS

Local soldiers stationed at Calgary and visiting their homes here over the weekend included Malcolm Smith, Alex Kanik, Ross Foster, Frank Coccioni and John McCulloch. They returned to Calgary on Monday morning.

Miss Violet Sapeta has been appointed to the Frank Abusafy store staff.

U.F.O. SPONSOR DIES

Gordon Waldron, noted Toronto lawyer and one of the strongest figures behind the U.F.O. party at the time it came to power in Ontario, died Oct. 4. He was 76.

The Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women will be held in the Council Chambers, Coleman, from Oct. 23 to Oct. 28, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. The V. R. C. W. is a non-political voluntary organization formed for the purpose of ascertaining Canada's power. Questionnaires will be filed and available to the government for use in any emergency, so that women will be able to serve their country in the way they are best qualified. It is hoped all Coleman women will register. Mrs. Rose is convenor of the local committee, and would be glad of assistance with the registering. Volunteer helpers are therefore requested to see Mrs. Rose before Monday, Oct. 23.

Commissioner Benjamin Barnes, who for the past seven years has been in charge of Salvation Army operations in San Francisco, was named territorial commander of the Salvation Army in Canada, Newfoundland, Alaska and Bermuda. He succeeds Commissioner George L. Carpenter, who shortly will take up his work as general of the international Salvation Army.

$1,000 Objective Coleman's Share National Fund

Organization Proceeding For Complete Canvas of Town—Instructions on Women's Work Will Be Issued When Supplies Available.

The executive of Coleman branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society met last evening in the council chamber, the following being present: Mrs. L. L. Rippon, vice-president; Mrs. Arthur E. Graham, secretary; Wilfrid Dutil, treasurer; Mrs. H. Claxton, T. McCloy and H. T. Halliwell.

Names added to the general committee to represent their respective organizations were M. Joyce and Max Stigler for Coleman Miners Association; Wilfrid Dutil and Herb Sherratt for the Elks Lodge; Norman E. MacAulay for the Masonic lodge; Miss Gladys Lees for the school trustees; Mrs. Elizabeth Macgregor for the Eastern Star.

The national campaign for membership will open on Monday, Nov. 13, and Mr. Dutil submitted a plan dividing the town and adjacent areas into eight sections, with committees to canvass same.

Each one of the executive appointed to the canvas will be accompanied by one or two members of the various organizations represented on the general committee. A complete list will be confirmed at a meeting to be held on Monday evening under the convenorship of Mr. Dutil. The local objective for the membership campaign was set at a minimum of $1,000.

Headquarters in forwarding instructions for articles to be made, advised that supplies would be sent as early as possible, and that in the meantime the local branch should purchase material. As patterns had not been sent, the War Work Committee, under the convenorship of Mrs. Rippon, cannot issue instructions. Mrs. Graham intends visiting provincial headquarters in Calgary this week-end and will secure further details regarding materials, patterns, etc.

Donations were received from the First Slovak Benefit Society $15, and from the Lithuanian Literary Society $25. The national campaign objective is $3,000,000. Membership cards and window stickers will be issued, also buttons to members.

Mrs. Hugh Dunlop sent in a letter asking if she could organize a United church unit to work for the Red Cross.

Miss Yuill Coached Cameron School Athletes

In Coleman's drive for Pass interscholastic honors last week, it was omitted to mention Miss A. Yuill as coach of the stalwart athletes from Cameron school. She has taken an active interest in these sports since their inception and her work in West Coleman was a big help to Coach Ray Spillers, of Central school, who was in charge of the local athletes at Blairmore.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Tom Brennan jr. is clerk in the Grand Union hotel, having recently been appointed.

About 20 members of Summit and Rocky Mountain Masonic lodges visited Hillcrest lodge last Thursday night on the occasion of the official visit of the district deputy grand master, J. O. C. McDonald, of Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, of Salmo, B.C., and their 14-months-old son "Bill" are spending a two weeks holiday here, under the convenorship of Mr. Dutil. The local objective for the membership campaign was set at a minimum of $1,000.

Miss Nora McLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLeod, of Cadomin, and a former high school student here, was on the Alberta University tennis team that competed against Saskatchewan on Saturday. The Alberta team lost 5 matches to 2.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the morning service at the United Church. This is the regular autumn communion. Members and adherents are asked to make every effort to attend. Those with no other church home are welcome.

It was proposed to hold a public meeting on Monday, Oct. 30 to arouse interest in the campaign, and this will be confirmed at next week's meeting of the executive.

Full Control Of Air Training Scheme In Hands Of Canada

Ottawa. Full control of the co-operative air training scheme will be in the hands of Canadian authorities, Lord Rutherford, head of the British air training mission, said on his arrival here.

Financial arrangements for the scheme, which Lord Rutherford described as the biggest thing the Empire has ever attempted, have not been worked out in detail. He expected, however, that the participating governments those of the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand, would pay the Canadian government so much per man trained.

The amount would be based on the cost of operating the schools, which will probably be spread all across Canada.

Lord Rutherford said he hoped the scheme would be under way within a month.

At peak as many as 25,000 to 30,000 trained pilots, observers, air gunners and wireless operators might be turned out of the Canadian schools within a year. Establishment is planned of intermediate and advanced schools for Canadian, Australian and New Zealand airmen. All airmen from those dominions will be trained here and the British government will keep the schools full by sending over British airmen.

"This thing has already had a tremendous psychological effect on the Germans," said Lord Rutherford, "they see the prospect of their own forces becoming weaker as time goes on while ours are continually rising in strength."

Canadian, Australian and New Zealand airmen were the best fighters in the world, he said. That fact, coupled with the advantages of space and safety were reasons for establishment of the training scheme in Canada.

"We are desperately anxious to get some pilots from the dominions overseas," he said. "We have many in the Royal Air Force now but we would like to get them in their own wings and squadrons. We like to have them mixing up among our Azores."

Owing to the number of men to be trained the wear and tear on machines will be heavy. Aircraft manufacturing establishments will be called upon to produce large numbers of machines.

At the start, at least, some aircraft will be brought from England. Instructors and other trained personnel will be sent from England as there may be required. There were plenty of good instructors in Canada, however, and these would be employed primarily.

Lord Rutherford said that Canada can become also the centre for peacetime training and manufacture of aircraft" under the wartime plan. He said the recently-announced plan to train the Empire's war aviators in Canada was "not only a war measure."

"By that," he added, "I mean that we must stop with ending of hostilities, for commercial aviation is still only young, and this country can become a centre for peacetime training and manufacture of aircraft."

"People over here can't realize there is a war on," he said. "You don't know that we have been in the dark ever since the war started. If you move about at night you must carry a torch with two pieces of paper over it and grope your way along."

Germans Ban Books

John Buchan Books Believed To Carry British Propaganda

Essen, Germany.—A German ban on the books of the governor-general to Canada and John Buchan Wallace is foreshadowed in the Essoer Zeitung, General Goering's newspaper.

"Even in Edgar Wallace books and in those of John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir) British propaganda is inserted in such a subtle way that it poisons the minds of Germans," the newspaper said.

"An end must be put to British anti-German propaganda by means of apparently harmless novels."

Jews And Arabs Enlist

Jerusalem.—Jews and Arabs were responding by the hundreds to a recruiting campaign for 2,000 Palestinians to be used in the auxiliary services of the British army.

Red Army Active

Moscow.—The government radio announced the Red army units in the Caucasus mountains—on the southern frontier between Persia and Turkey—had been reinforced.

German Fuehrer Threatens To Wage War On A Vast Scale

Berlin.—Adolf Hitler indirectly asked President Roosevelt to intervene in the war by advising Great Britain to meet Germany in conference.

Failure of the United States to do this, the führer indicated, would result in his unleashing a "war in earnest" against Great Britain and France producing the "most gruesome bloodbath in history."

The führer's views were given to foreign correspondents by his press chief, Dr. Otto Dietrich, after a conference of several hours which followed study by Hitler of Prime Minister Chamberlain's rejection of Germany's peace terms.

(Mr. Chamberlain had said Britain could not accept Germany's conquest of Poland without loss of honor.)

In brief, Hitler's views were represented as being:

In view of Mr. Chamberlain's speech Germany must wage war on a gigantic scale against Britain and France.

The command for action would be delayed if there should be any indication President Roosevelt, was likely to tell Mr. Chamberlain he must express a willingness to meet with Germany in conference.

For Special Duty

Brigadier Crozier Will Join Defence Headquarters At Ottawa

Ottawa.—Brigadier H. D. G. Crozier, commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., will come to defence headquarters at Ottawa for special duty. Hon. Norman Rogers, defence minister, announced.

Col. Kenneth Stuart, director of military operations and intelligence, will succeed him at Kingston and Col. M. A. Pope, secretary of staff committee, will assume Col. Stuart's present duties in addition to his own.

All three officers have long records of service in the Canadian forces and the defence department.

Airmen Decorated

London.—The London Gazette announced the King had awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross to flying officers Kenneth Christopher Doran and Andrew McPherson "in recognition of gallantry in flying operations" against an enemy crew early in September, presumably the raid on the Kiel Canal Sept. 4.

Technical Men To Play A Large Part In Defence Of Empire

Edmonton.—Registrations carried on since last spring have resulted in 20,000 engineers, metallurgists and chemists being ready to aid in Canada's war effort. Dean H. W. McKelvie of Nova Scotia's Mount Allison University and president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said here.

None of these technical men has been called up yet, but Dean McKelvie expects they will have a large part to play.

"It's going to be a mechanical war," he said, "and technical men will do a large part of the fighting although not in the actual line of battle."

Flying The Mail

Air Mail Schedules To Colonies And Dominions Being Maintained

London.—Despite war difficulties, air mail schedules to the dominions and colonies are being maintained with an average delay of only about two days, William MacBane, assistant post master general, said.

The post office announced earlier that, following suspension of regular Atlantic flights by way of the northern route to Newfoundland, air mail to Canada, Newfoundland and United States would be routed through Pan-American Airways' bi-weekly service on the southern route from Lisbon to New York, via The Azores.

Replying to criticism in the House of Commons by David Adams (Labor) about delay in air service, Mr. MacBane said two air mail services a week operate to East Africa, Palestine, India, Burma, Hong Kong, Malaya and Australia and one service to West Africa and Malta.

According to the suggestion, there is every evidence that continued operation of air mail services is highly appreciated," Mr. MacBane said. "The schedule of approximate flying times, namely, three days to Palestine, four days to Karachi, five days to Calcutta, 11 days to Australia, four days to East Africa and six days to South Africa, are in each case two days more than before the war."

Russian Purge

General Krivitsky Tells Of Soviet Liquidation Methods

Washington.—General Walter G. Krivitsky, who identified himself as a former officer of the Russian military intelligence, told the congressional committee investigating un-American activities that Communist leaders in Germany, Poland and Hungary were recalled to Moscow and shot even though they were not Russian citizens.

The reason was that Joseph Stalin "trusted" them, he said.

The slight, 40-year-old witness named nine persons who he had been Communist leaders and who later displeased Stalin and met death.

Some were former members of the German reichstag.

The 1936-37 purge in Russia, Krivitsky said resulted in the deaths of 35,000 members of the red army officers' corps.

Broke Parole

British Pilot Who Broke Parole Is To Return To Iceland

London.—The air ministry announced that a Royal Air Force pilot accused of breaking his parole to Iceland authorities after a forced landing there Sept. 26 would return "as soon as possible."

The announcement said the pilot of the flying boat, on leaving Raufarhoefn, was under the impression he had not promised to stay.

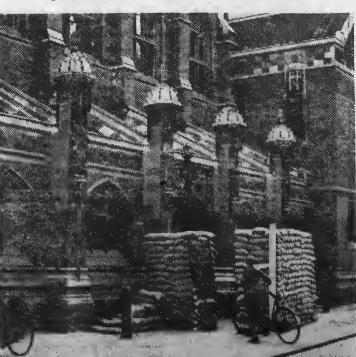

"The Icelandic authorities had formed a different impression and when their views were explained to the pilot he did not hesitate to volunteer to return immediately to Iceland," it added. "The views of the pilot in this matter of parole should be no element of doubt."

With this view the air ministry concurred and the officer accordingly will return to Iceland as soon as possible."

Increase Output Of Oil

Calgary.—The Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board announced daily allowable production for the 88 Turner Valley oil wells shall be 26,000 barrels of crude, an increase of 3,000 barrels daily effective Oct. 11.

Barter Arrangement

Russian Timber To Be Exchanged For Rubber And Tin

London.—The British ministry of supply and the Soviet trade delegation in London concluded an agreement for an exchange of Russian timber for rubber and tin.

Although the barter agreement was described as commercial, the Press association said it was expected to "have important political as well as trade impacts."

The terms of timber, rubber and tin involved were not disclosed but were said to be about equal as in normal trade. The agreement would facilitate exchange before the freezing up of White Sea ports prevents the export of timber.

Timber is on the German list of contraband which German warships are trying to prevent reaching Britain where it might be used as cellulose for munitions manufacture.

When it was first learned two weeks ago that Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky had indicated willingness to discuss trade questions with Britain, considerable importance was attached to his step since Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop was in Moscow then for negotiations which led to a Soviet-German trade pact.

(Shipping officials of Norway and Denmark reported last week that they had received inquiries from Germany whether vessels would be available for shipping Soviet timber to Britain.

Norwegian expressiveness willingness to engage in the trade, but Danish shippers, whose sea outlets are close to German waters, turned a cold shoulder to the Soviet inquiries.)

Numerous Scandinavian vessels carrying wood cargoes from Sweden to Britain have been intercepted by German sea patrols since the war started.

A Mechanical War

Technical Men To Play A Large Part In Defence Of Empire

Edmonton.—Registrations carried on since last spring have resulted in 20,000 engineers, metallurgists and chemists being ready to aid in Canada's war effort. Dean H. W. McKelvie of Nova Scotia's Mount Allison University and president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said here.

None of these technical men has been called up yet, but Dean McKelvie expects they will have a large part to play.

"It's going to be a mechanical war," he said, "and technical men will do a large part of the fighting although not in the actual line of battle."

"The issue is plain," Mr. Chamberlain declared. "Either the German government must give convincing proof of the sincerity of their desire for peace by definite acts and by the provision of effective guarantees of their intention to fulfil their undertakings or we must persevere in our duty to the end. It is for Germany to choose her choice."

Mr. Chamberlain summed up the attitude of the British government in these words:

"Herr Hitler rejected all suggestions for peace until he had overwhelmed Poland, as he had previously overthrown Czechoslovakia. Peace conditions cannot be acceptable which begin by condoning aggression."

"Even if Herr Hitler's proposals were more closely defined and contained suggestions to right these wrongs," he continued, "it would still be necessary to ask by what practical means the German government intend to convince the world that aggression will cease and that pledges will be kept. Past experience has shown that no reliance can be placed upon the promises of the present government."

"Accordingly, acts — not words alone—must be forthcoming before we, the British peoples, and France,

Mass Movement Of Troops To France A Great Military Feat

London.—Flashing guns and bursting depth charges of the Royal Navy sent three German submarines to the bottom of the sea, their hulls shattered, their raiding days over. It was the biggest day's haul of the war to rescue a few survivors."

The admiralty announced the successes while the British expeditionary force in France was described as waiting with French troops "in complete confidence" any attack Ado Hitler may launch in the west.

The twin announcement came at a time when the American liner President Harding was reporting the rescue of 36 crew members from the sunken British freighter Heronpool.

Britain claimed the "first round of the war" against Germany with the successful transportation of the expeditionary force of 158,000 men to France and declared "we await attack in complete confidence."

The declaration came from a towering and witty statesman whom the world office produced as a spokesman. He was introduced at a crowded press conference in the map-hung war office by War Secretary Lord Horatio-Belisha.

Mr. Horatio-Belisha struck the keynote for the gathering by asserting that the successful mass movement of troops to France was praised by a Frenchman as "the greatest military feat since Trafalgar and the first victory we have had in the war."

The admiralty took notice of the Pan-American neutrality zone by asserting that it must be for belligerents to decide whether or not to accept restrictions which would limit their enjoyment of certain well-established rights."

Cabinet Member Enlists

Premier Hepburn To Take Over Department Of Works During His Absence

Toronto.—Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced he would take over the department of public works as acting minister in the absence of Hon. Colin Campbell, granted leave of absence to join the army.

Mr. Campbell has joined the Royal Canadian Engineers.

It was stated that Mr. Campbell had been appointed a second lieutenant in the Second Field forces.

"The only thing is that we cannot guarantee his job in event of an emergency," the premier said. The government has undertaken to guarantee the jobs of regular civil servants who enlist.

Mr. Campbell is 38 years old. A graduate of Queen's University he is a consulting engineer and has been active in mining developments in northern Ontario and Quebec. He married in 1923 and has two daughters and two sons.

Chamberlain Rejects Hitler's Peace Terms In Blunt Language

London.—Prime Minister Chamberlain rejected Adolf Hitler's peace terms while the crowded House of Commons cheered his words.

The prime minister spoke 16 minutes but it is doubtful if any speech he ever delivered was punctuated so freely with prolonged cheering. For once his usual icy cold delivery gave way to indignation and verbal emphasis seldom employed by him.

The 70-year-old prime minister literally brought the house to its feet by his declaration Britain could not accept peace at the price of honor.

These sentiments were approved and echoed by Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, who said there was no use accepting peace unless it could be used to build a better world.

In his speech for the opposition, Mr. Attlee said no British government, whether from the point of view of principle or the point of view of produce, could make any answer of a different kind than that which the prime minister had made.

"The people of this country will endorse it," he added.

The Labor leader declared Britain had gone to the "extreme of war arms" before it took up arms and that Germany at any time could have discussed such problems as frontiers, colonies, raw materials and disarmament. Instead Germany had chosen violence.

Said abandonment of aggression was "an indispensable condition" to peace because there could be no enduring peace until "we get rid of the rule of violence."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

BISHOP Sherman of Calgary is giving a radio talk every Friday night. Reading the reprint of the talk of October 6, relating to Thanksgiving, a very significant quotation was noticed. George Robert Parkin, Knight, late scholar, school teacher, Rhodes secretary, Imperialist, is the man quoted, as follows:

"I was in the Windsor hotel in Montreal," he wrote, "when a reporter came to see me about something. The first question he asked was: 'What do you think of this as a country for a white man to live in?' 'Well,' I said, 'what do you mean?' 'Why,' he said, 'it was thirty-five degrees below zero last night.' I said, 'Don't you know that is the greatest asset Canada has?' 'How do you make that out?' he said. 'Because,' I said . . . it has an effect upon our immigrants of certain classes. When the submerged-tenth type of man goes to Canada, Nature takes him, as it were, by the scruff of the neck, and says, 'If you do not have industry, and foresight, and prudence, and get a roof over your head and food in your larder, you are going to die, and die he will. What is the result? Within one generation you will see a half-submerged type of man, with his backbone strengthened; he turns industrious, looks ahead, and may soon become a useful citizen. All that is the result of latitude!'

THOSE words might well be pondered by those who are only too ready to turn to governmental agencies for relief instead of trying to pull their own weight. Too much paternalism on the part of governments has a tendency to produce a race of "softies" who would rather live on the earnings of others than get out and hustle to produce something. That is why the morale of the idle is always at a low ebb.

MONDAY morning's mail quite frequently brings surprises—some good, some otherwise. But this week we received the following:

"The twins arrived—a boy and a girl. And all three are doing swell. The boy, first to arrive, will be Michael. The girl, arriving 20 minutes later, will be Teresa. The doctor, hospital and everybody also assure me the outlook is good."

Now this wasn't from a member of the family circle, as some might have quite readily imagined at first glance, but from Sam Ross, head of the Canadian Press Bureau in Edmonton. We take the liberty of proclaiming to the wide world the glad tidings.

IN Michel on Saturday evening a couple of "hill-billies" from this end of The Pass got what they deserved. Making some insolent remark to one or two of the boys on leave from the artillery battery at Cranbrook, they were soon thrown out on their ear with a few forcible reminders of black eyes and other temporary damages sufficient to impress on them that it isn't wise to "rag" a man in uniform. Summary justice was meted out, and it is hardly likely they will bring an action for assault. Any "yellow-belly" who will taunt a man wearing the King's uniform deserves all he gets.

OF INTEREST TO THE LADIES

On Their Golden Wedding Day

Former Coleman People, Will Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary in Their Calgary Home

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Easton, former Coleman residents, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home, 1027 8th St. East, Calgary, on Oct. 25. They first came to Canada in 1891, and lived on Vancouver Island. They returned to Scotland, and again feeling the urge to come west, made their second journey to Canada, to live in Coleman where they remained for over 25 years.

Their last place of residence here was in the cottage now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Penny, sr., opposite the high school.

The family includes Mrs. Malcolm Morrison of Wetaskiwin, Mrs. Charlie Graham of Calgary (daughter) and one son, Mr. Alex Easton of Coleman, who expect to be present to join in the celebration of this golden occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Easton, sr. announce that they will be at home to all their friends on October 25. Doubtless many old friends and acquaintances in Coleman will read with keen interest of the event, and extend good wishes to this well-respected couple.

Pork Pies

There is something about a pork pie that can't be exactly described in words, particularly when they are made by somebody who knows how. We remember a firm in London, Eng. (Watlings') whose pork pies became a household word, and were sold in stores and even in hotel bars, for with a bottle of beer they were the clear thing. If you haven't yet tried them, by all means call this weekend at the house, where you will get them fresh from the oven—and we'll just bet you'll agree that they're O.K.

And incidentally, just as a little boost for ourselves as well as the pork pies, Mrs. Lonsbury reports that as a result of the advertisement in last week's Bulletin, she had four new customers from Blairmore, as well as several from Coleman. Who says it doesn't pay to advertise? We envision this pork pie business developing into a really big home industry.

SHOWERS

Miss Emma Rogers was hostess at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Wednesday evening in honor of her cousin, Miss Cherry Smith, bride-elect.

Mrs. Joe Jenkins and Miss Agnes Jenkins were joint hostesses at the home of Mr. Robert Jenkins on Thursday, Oct. 5, in honor of Miss Margaret Houghton, bride-elect. The guest of honor was the recipient of many useful presents, for which she thanked her friends present. Bingo was played, prize-winners being Miss Mary Garner and Miss Hilda Hillary.

Miss Mary Kanik, bride-elect, was honored recently when hostesses Mrs. Frank Vincent and Mrs. Steve Siska and a number of friends met in the Catholic Hall and presented her with many lovely gifts.

Miss Adelaide Mitchell of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Plante and son were visitors recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Plante.

Says Purity Maid: "I've a tip to suggest. If you seek cooking fame, use none but the best; Use Purity Flour for bread, cakes and pies. You'll win smiles and praises, and many a prize."

PURITY MAID SAYS:

"It must be quite puzzling to all the sweet young brides to read about 'bread flour' and 'pastry flour' and 'cake flour'. But it isn't really confusing . . . not at all. It's just a simple piece of advice that Purity Flour is all of these in one. Yes, Purity Flour is a wonderful flour for bread. And it is equally wonderful for all kinds of cakes, biscuits, pies and pastries. Just try making Flaky Pastry with Purity Flour, and you will be rewarded with a flakiness and a distinct taste that will win you a standing ovation of approval."

PURITY FLAKY PASTRY

1 cup Purity Flour 1 cup shortening
3 cups cold water

METHOD: Mix flour with 1 cup of cold water until mixture is like fine meal. Add remaining water, using less than 1 cup of water if possible. Turn out on a floured board and roll out to 1/2-inch thickness. Sift flour over the surface. Turn back and fold dough over 3 times and roll again to required thickness. Always keep dough at the temperature of a refrigerator. A thin sheet will not bake up in the oven. 4. Bake in hot oven 425° for 15 to 20 minutes. Use 1/2 cup butter and half shortening or more shortening.)

NO BRASS BAND SENDS TOMMY ATKINS ON WAY TO FRANCE

There isn't a brass band, but the boys had music as they marched off to war. These grim-faced British Tommies are swinging along a street in an unidentified English city playing a favorite tune of the last war, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." An accordion, drum, cymbals, fife and mouth organs pep up the marchers as they headed for a troopship to take them to France.

United Church Notes

The Women's Missionary Society was well represented at an Autumn rally at Pincher Creek last Thursday. The speaker for the occasion was Mrs. J. M. Pritchard of Lethbridge, who gave an illustrated talk on a recent trip through the Peace River and Grand Prairie country.

On Friday evening the teachers in the Sunday school took part in a teachers institute held at Blairmore. Bellevue and Hillcrest were also represented. After the supper period two departments were conducted, one by Rev. David Forsythe, Boys Work secretary for the Dominion, the other by Mr. Roy Bellford, who is connected with the Sunday school publishing department. A very pleasant and profitable evening was enjoyed.

The senior choir is again functioning regularly. This one feature alone should bring about a greatly improved attendance at the evening service.

On Sunday, Oct. 8, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Westworth was baptized Kathleen Jean. At the same time the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Murdoch was baptized Gail Elizabeth.

At the morning service on Oct. 15, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald was baptized Margaret Jean. The church school attendance is again showing encouraging improvement. Children with no other Sunday school connection are cordially invited.

Welcome to Brigadier Ursaki
A supper is being held this evening by the Salvation Army to welcome Brigadier Ursaki, recently appointed divisional commander in Alberta. A public meeting will be held at 8 p.m., to which all are invited.

Establish War HospitalMILLION DOLLARS FROM MASSEY ESTATE TO BE USED FOR HOSPITAL IN ENGLAND

Under an order issued in Toronto by Mr. Justice W. T. Kelly $1,000,000 of the funds of the Massey Foundation are to be used for establishment of a military hospital in England.

There was no official entry of the order at Osgoode Hall, centre of the Ontario law courts, but it was learned that the order followed an application to the court for a ruling as to whether the conditions on which the Massey Foundation was established would permit such a contribution.

The Massey Foundation is a fund that was set up at the request of the late Chester D. Massey, father of Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, from the estate of the late Hart Massey, founder of a big Canadian industry. The Massey Foundation has already contributed some $12,000,000 to charities.

Ask for BEE HIVEPatented POURING SPOUT ON EVERY TIN!*Fantastic History*American Writer Describes The Present Situation As Topsy-Turvy

When future historians come to study this present war, I think they will be puzzled by one fact, namely, that it is the Germans who boast and threaten, while it is the British who speak softly and cry for peace.

This is strange, because the Germans are, by nature, a romantic people, happiest when tranquil; while the British are perhaps the most pugnacious breed of man that has ever roamed this planet.

The British are natural fighting men, a warrior race if ever there was one; and their allies, the French, are far from being pacifists that they have given us practically the whole vocabulary of militarism. Yet it is the German—singer, philosopher and family man—who struts in armor and hymns the glory of war.

I wonder if in all its fantastic history the world has ever been quite so topsy-turvy as it now is—Howard V. O'Brien, in Chicago Daily News.

Business As UsualCanada Pursues Grim Business Of Prosecuting War Without Fan-Fare

In many ways this does not resemble a country at war. Friends who have been in New York of late tell us that there is far more "war hysteria" in that neutral city than you can find in Montreal. But that is just their way and ours. We are not a people prone to excitement. That does not mean a lessening of our determination, once a thing is started, to prosecute it to a finish. So many ways life goes on as usual. But beneath the surface there is a steady pulsing emotion, a feeling of resolve, of dedication. There is no flag-waving, but this is not a flag-waving war. This is a grim business, and Canada is going about it in a businesslike way. Let us leave the banner-waving and ranting to the enemy. We shall save our cheers for the day of victory. —Montreal Herald.

Loyalty To The CrownThe Strong Tie Binding Canada To Great Britain

Canada is a completely independent member of the British Commonwealth of Nations and makes her own decisions on foreign policy. F. P. Dawson, K.C., said when speaking before 400 Kiwanians at the annual centennial of the new Farmington, Mich., Kiwanis Club, Mr. Dawson said he wanted to clear up a popular misconception in the United States that Canada is a colony of Britain and subject to her dictates. He pointed out that loyalty to the Crown is the only tie binding Canada to Britain and in the light of this situation, the American people should be better able to understand the significance of Canada's undertaking in the present war.

The British EmpireHeld Together By The Free Voice Of All Its Members

So far, Britain—alone European lands—has accomplished the dual task of creating a world dominion and within it the realization of a distinct type. It is the Empire that breeds tends and full of so many diverse interests that only force could have founded it; but force cannot maintain it; it is held together by the free voice of all its members.

The fact that it is so held together derives partly from political and economic reasons but, primarily, from the force of the Anglo-Saxon idea. This idea rests upon the premise that—within the Empire thus founded by force—every citizen who recognizes its power is a free man. He can express any opinion he likes in the press or on the platform; he can profess any religion that he chooses—Hinduism, Buddhism and Islamism enjoy the protection of the state . . .

No official interferes with his private life; he can move from place to place freely and police regulation. The State makes no demands of him, and imposes no compulsion upon him; it merely invites him to cooperate with it. Despite all this freedom, the Empire holds together—a fact which proves that this State—unlike any other in the world—has a moral basis. It is an advantage for any nation to belong to this State.

—Professor Wilhelm Dibulus; died 1931 (former professor of English, Berlin University).

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CITIZENS OF THE KINGDOM

Golden text: Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven. Matthew 5:16.

Lesson: Matthew 5:1-16.

Devotional reading: Psalm 24.

Explanations And Comments:

The Influence and Responsibility of Citizens of the Kingdom, verses 13-16.

Ye are the salt of the earth. Ye are the preserve from corruption. Impulses should come from normal corruption, should exert upon them a saving influence.

But if salt becomes insipid, what can make it salt again? Is not salt the true salt?

Persons ought to speak the words which bear witness to righteousness and truth and purity; patiently to do the kind which strengthens virtue and kindles the soul. Persons ought generously to lend a hand to those who are trying to climb upward; faithfully to give your support and your personal help to the efforts which are made to maintain and purify the social life of the world—that is what it means to have salt in your character?

—Henry Van Dyke

Ye are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hid. It is often suggested that from the Horns of Hatton, 2,000 feet above sea level, a city 2,650 feet above sea level, which commanded a fine view. The disciples were conspicuous witnesses for Christ.

Neither did you light a lamp and put it under a bushel, but on a stand. The bushel means a bushel-measure that was to be found in every household. "God has lighted every lamp in the world." Men are not so foolish as to light you for convenience. You are lighted that you may illumine."

"Hothen doth with us as we with torches."

Not light them for themselves.

For if our virtues

Did not go forth of us, 'twere

All alike.

As if we had them not."

—Shakespeare.

Even so, like the city set on a hill and the lamp put on a stand, you high-spirited men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven. "Do nothing to glorify yourself, but everything to get glory to God by honoring the Gospel."

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH

WHEN "AGE" MUST BE SERVED

Recent reports from the United States indicating that a more mature "national mind" is evolving in that country, owing to the change in age groups on the population, are interesting from the Canadian standpoint because of similar conditions here.

The statement made a few weeks ago by the Health League of Canada, that had the 1929 ratio of infant mortality prevailed in 1938, there would have been 6,545 more deaths than there were in Canada last year.

The Canadian average of 63 deaths of children under one year of age, per 1,000 live births, was a reduction from 92 in 1929. A later bulletin from the Health League gave the final figure for Ontario as only 49.5.

In both Canada and the United States the birth rate has been declining and medical statistics see no immediate prospect of an upturn.

While these two factors—a decreasing birthrate and decreasing infant mortality—would seem to offset one another, there are other factors reported by the American Medical Association that affect national life in both countries.

Due to new victories in the fight against disease and the possibility of reducing fatal accidents in the future, the proportion of people in upper age will increase. The medical association says:

"The control of the communicable diseases has been the most important factor in increasing average longevity; in fact, except for tuberculosis and pneumonia, all the other infections have been almost eliminated as factors of importance so far as the death rate is concerned."

The report points out:

At present 260 of every 1,000 persons living in the United States are 40 years old or over, and it is estimated that 36 per cent of the population will be between 40 and 65 years old by 1960.

This is what prompts the finding that industrial adjustment to this development constitutes a problem—indicating the approach of time when age and wealth must be served.

"Older men and women" it says "will enjoy increased employment in industry—and will assume more important places in social and political activities. The viewpoint of more mature thought and judgment, they conclude, should have a stabilizing effect on national life."

McCord's eyes lit with approval. "Here you are and you've walked with a heavy pack to get here."

"No, I had to circulate some lakes and swamp country, but I had little trouble making it. To-morrow we must drop downstream to help Noel up river with that canoe load."

McCord nodded. "You left them, you say, where they couldn't find the way back to the main stream without you in weeks?"

Alan laughed. "The country's network of inlets and muskegs. They're likely to get into White water and be on their way to Lake Bienville before they find out their mistake. They'll be lucky if they don't strike the freeze-up before they get out."

"Good boy! You did a good job on them, Alan. Now let's get back to Fort George. This Sergeant McQueen, as he calls himself, would be about five feet, ten. He's thick-set and rugged, carries his head a little forward and what you'd notice about his face, except a mean mouth, are his eyes—too close together and a faded blue."

Alan's jaw dropped in amazement. "Why! You—must know him?"

McCord exhaled a cloud of tobacco smoke as his eyes wrinkled in an amused look. "I ought to know him," he said dryly. "I had to look at that face for two years or more."

"And Slade—you know him, too?"

"Let's see, Sanford, well, you know him as Slade, would go a little over six feet, medium build, sandy hair and blue eyes. But the thing you'd notice about him are his hands and feet. They're too large and, somehow, you always notice them."

Alan nodded. "That's right! You do! That's Slade all right!"

"So much for these officers of the law," sneered McCord. "Now for this Hanbury woman who came in to see—plane, she had a chance to look at me, but I didn't notice her coming to my place. Did you happen to notice a trick she had, when she laughed of throwing her head back and looking at you through half-closed eyes? She's pretty handy with her eyes. Notice that, Alan?"

"You've met her?" Alan demanded, recalling only too clearly the hazel eyes of Mrs. Hanbury, half-masked by the long-lashed lids.

"Yes, I've seen her before—know her fairly well, in fact."

"I know, but how did you guess she was the woman I told you about, unless it was the name?"

"The name was strange. She's used several. It was her knowledge of this fellow, McCrae, Alan, those birds are not police!"

Cameron's lye dropped as he stared at the other's grinning face. "Not police?"

"No, and she's got nothing to do with the government!"

"I don't understand! They had regular government papers—signed in Quebec, identifying them and ordering all fur-posts to give them assistance. I made McQueen show me his badge. They must be..."

McCord threw back his head and drew a great cloud of smoke from his mouth. "Those papers were forged! These men are looking for me, all right, Alan, my lad, and they're their partner, but they're not police."

"And you're not wanted—by the government?"

McCord stowly shook his blond head. Then he asked: "Did this Mrs. Hanbury look like a murdered woman to you?"

"A murdered woman? What d'you mean?"

"You heard I was wanted for the murder of my wife."

"Yes."

McCord gazed across the river up to the shoulders of the tundra above the forest as he said bitterly: "Mrs. Hanbury is my wife."

"Your wife—Heather's mother?" A heavy load suddenly lifted from Alan's shoulders. He realized what that startling revelation of the McCord meant. John not an outlaw—a wanted man. He, Alan Cameron, a free man at Fort George. This Queen—

"Yes—Heather's mother," repeated McCord, in a strained voice.

Inarticulately from the shock of his surprise, Alan allowed his pipe to slip through his fingers to the pebbles of the beach. The nightmare through which he had lived had proved, after all, only an ugly dream.

"It's wonderful, John, wonderful—to know you're not a wanted man!" he cried. "I'm as dazed as a bear in a dead-fall! I can't believe it! McCrae—Slade, putting it over on Fort George that way! Oh, what a joke on them all! What a joke on Noel and me—racing them through the ice to reach Neil Campbell!"

Alan laughed until he was breathless. Then he suddenly sobered, as a look of such bitterness crept over McCord's desolate face that Alan quickly shifted his eyes to the river while his friend battened with the painful memories. For a long space, they sat in silence while they smoked. Then McCord drew a deep breath and turned to his friend.

"Not knowing what I was—murderer, crook, hunted by the police, you stuck by me through gratitude, pity for Heather, and the fact that we had pledged each other our friendship," he said. "I knew what you were when I first looked into your pinched face, Alan. I knew you'd stand by. You have. Now I want you to hear my story."

And here, once again, spoke the Talking Indian. John McCord told Alan why he had come into the heart of Labrador, bringing a girl of seventeen on a strange errand.

The years preceding the World War had found him living in a small town in Ontario with a young wife and a little girl. Occupied as a timber superintendent for a pulp and lumber company, he had been compelled to spend much of his time away from home on various timber limits of his employers. Pleasure-loving, his wife chafed at his absences, but he brushed them aside. By the time the war broke out he had left him and Heather. She loved life in the cities and went and found it. Leaving the child with his mother, he enlisted and went overseas.

For two years he served in the same battalion with a man who had been a prospector and had taken much of his wanderings from the Yukon to Labrador.

After Messines Ridge, where he got the ugly gash on his forehead, McCord found himself in the same hospital with his friend, Aleck Drummond. In Montreal, after the war, he had come to a Hudson's Bay man who had once been stationed at Fort Chimo, at the mouth of the great Koksoak River which rises somewhere in the heart of Labrador and flows north into Ungava Bay.

"I see now, why you asked me to talk to Deasane about the Koksoak and the River of Skulls," interrupted Alan.

"Wait a minute and you'll understand," replied McCord, continuing his narrative.

The fur man had been told by some Naskapi, who once came to the post, of a branch of the Koksoak called the River of Skulls, because of a battle between Koksoak Eskimos and Naskapi, in which they had wiped each other completely out. Later, the Indians found the bodies; they were afraid to bury them because of the moaning of the spirits of the dead in the gorge above. So the skulls and bones lay strewn along the shore and flats. After this the Indians called it the River of Skulls and the Gorge of the Spirits, Manitou Gorge.

"That's exactly the same story Deasane told me!" observed Alan. "Yes, but listen to this," returned McCord, and went on with his tale.

One year some Naskapi, more daring than the rest, were camped on the sand flats that reach a long way below this gorge, spearing caribou, for the skins.

Deasane told me," observed Alan. "Yes, but listen to this," returned McCord, and went on with his tale.

Dies In Exile

Count Von Bernstorff Was Prominent Figure In Great War

Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, German ambassador whose assignment in Washington ended with the United States' entry into the Great War in 1917, died in Geneva of heart disease, a refugee from his own country since the rise of the Hitler regime.

Von Bernstorff, the last ambassador to represent Imperial Germany in the United States capital, was 76. At his bedside was his wife, the former Jeanne Luckemeyer, of New York.

Von Bernstorff, a leading social figure in pre-war Washington, and an object of American hatred in 1917, died almost as a recluse for the past five years.

He came of a noted German diplomatic family. His father was ambassador to Great Britain when Johann was born in London in 1862. The younger Bernstorff was sent to the United States in 1908. He served in Washington in 1917, when he was given his passport Feb. 3, 1917, two months before United States declared war.

He often warned his government in 1914 that its course was leading the United States into the war.

"My task was done when the Lusitania incident was disposed of without America's entry into the war," he once remarked. "After that, the question of peace or war depended not on me, but upon the Wilhelmstrasse and the great army headquarters."

He knew exactly that a repetition of the Lusitania incident or the unlimited extension of submarine warfare would automatically mean war with the United States. But they would not listen."

Useful Dogs

German Shepherd Dogs Trained To Lead The Blind

Of the 400 blind men and women who now are guided by dogs trained by the Seeing Eye, 75 per cent are attending college, running a house-hold or employed in full-time jobs. This is gist of a report by Mrs. Harrison Eustis, founder and president of the school for training the blind-leading dogs. Twenty per cent of the graduates are salesmen, a recent survey disclosed; 18 per cent operators of merchandise stands, 13 per cent students, 8 per cent workers in hand industry, 7 per cent home teachers and 5 per cent proprietors of one or another sort of business. Apparently the owners of blind-leading dogs fare a little better as to employment, or a percentage basis, than the adult population as a whole.

From the earliest times men have sung the praises of the faithful and intelligent dog in prose and verse. He has acted as watchdog, as guardian of the flock and herd, as companion and useful dog in hunting, for sport and as staunch family friend, almost since man has had a recorded history. Authenticated stories of his heroism and sagacity are legion. Perhaps never before, however, has the dog performed so beautiful and moving a service to humanity as the German shepherd dog which have been trained to lend their eyes and their other quick senses to the sightless, and thus to set them free.—New York Times.

British Censorship

Rules Laid Down Are Now Somewhat Less Stringent

The British press censorship, which caused widespread dissatisfaction among newspapermen at the start of the war, has improved to such an extent that complaints are now rare.

In the early days, before the censors were shaken down in their new jobs, long delays were common and correspondents never knew whether their copy had been passed, rejected or butchered.

Now the censors telephone politely if there is even a delay in passing the copy.

Copy filed by the Canadian Press goes through censorship in cable company offices, but the censors there must submit doubtful copy to their head office at the ministry of information.

Recently a correspondent wrote a story after visiting the R.A.F. training school. The story contained a few figures which the censor felt might help the enemy. He telephoned that he was deleting one paragraph, but listened to an argument that the figures were incomplete and that no calculations could be based on them. Finally he deleted only three words.

The Right Spirit

Film Star Returns To England To Offer Her Services

Anna Neagle, English film star who has been seen in several notable pictures in this country, recently completed an engagement in Hollywood. She will return at once to England to offer her services to the British Government.

"I could never stay here comfortably, making an enormous salary, while England is in this mess," Miss Neagle said the other day. "If there is nothing else for me to do, they might need me to entertain behind the lines."

That is the spirit that is animating the British people everywhere to-day.—Calgary Herald.

PROMPT SERVICE

PAYING BILLS HELPS BUSINESS (From The Vancouver Sun)

The credit manager of an important Vancouver store writes:

"Those who pay their bills promptly are the salt of the earth. They help us keep our business on an even keel—help us pay our bills and meet our payroll."

"It think it most important that we express our appreciation of those who pay promptly. Those who are slow in payment receive plenty of letters, but those who pay—never a word."

"So this is just to tell you that we appreciate and thank you for the promptness with which you meet your obligations to us."

It is true.

Nothing is so stimulating to business as the prompt payment of accounts—

Nothing can ruin business so quickly as accounts that hang fire for weeks and months through the pure carelessness and negligence of the purchaser.

The prompt payment of bills puts money into circulation.

And after all it is the velocity of money—the number of times a dollar changes hands in a given time—that creates prosperity.

A dead dollar, lying in a stock somewhere, is worth nothing. That same dollar passing from one person to another in the discharge of obligations is a builder of financial progress.

Before the end of each month people should get out their bills and pay them. They must be paid some time. Why not pay them at a time when they will add to the prosperity of the whole community?

A MILK BOTTLE HUNT

Boy Scouts of a Sault Ste. Marie Troop on a Saturday morning collected 430 overlooked milk bottles from homes in its district. The collection was made for local dairies. A verandah was used as a "central clearing station."

Because of their high vitamin content, cod and halibut livers are prized for their oil, which is valuable as a health and body builder.

rectory, when Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Kanik, of Coleman, became the bride of Mr. Alrik Tiberg, elder son of Mrs. B. Tiberg and the late Mr. Tiberg, of Blairmore. Rev. Father J. T. Dunbar officiated at the ceremony.

Lovely in a floor length gown of white net over taffeta with matching embroidery net bolero, she wore a floor length veil cascading from a coronet of orange blossoms. White accessories and a bouquet of roses and carnations completed her ensemble.

Miss Peggy Kubica attended the bride, and chose for the occasion a floor length gown of rose chiffon with a lace bolero and matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of carnations and mums.

Mr. John Kanik, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Following the wedding ceremony 30 invited guests sat down to the wedding dinner, held at the home of the bride's parents.

Following a short honeymoon in Calgary, the happy couple have taken up residence in Blairmore.

Shower For Cherry Smith
